Exchange Club Given Talk On European Visit

Members of the Redwood City Exchange club were given an interesting talk Tuesday evening when Carroll Hall, editor of the Tribune, gave a talk on his recent trip to Europe. The speaker told in an interesting and entertaining manner of the seenes visited during a visit of several months on the continent and in the British Osles.

The chairman of the meeting was J. P. Hearne.

Redwood Leads In Month's Building

San Mateo's customary leadership in building for cities in the county was yielded to Redwood City last month, according to the national monthly survey by S. W. Strauss & Company.

Redwood City building permits totaled $110,730 as against $108,528 for San Mateo and $80,350 for Burlingame, in September. Burlingame led in the same month for last year with $282,100 as against $180,755 for San Mateo and $37,465 for Redwood City.

For August of this year, San Mateo ran well above the other cities of the county covered by the survey. San Mateo permits were $165,325, Burlingame, $74,010 and Redwood City, $87,350.

Building conditions throughout the United States improved in September over August with a gain of 4 per cent, says the survey, which covers 577 leading cities. The record is significant in view of the fact that normal seasonal factors call for a decline of 9.5 per cent, it is pointed out. September figures in general were 23 per cent below those of September, 1929, and August totals this year were 37 per cent below August of a year ago.

MATINEE CHANGED

The Sequoia Theatre will advance the time of their Saturday afternoon matinee this week one-half hour and being the show at 1:30 instead of 2 o'clock. The change was made by Manager Tom Kane at the suggestion of Chief of Police Collins in order that children attending the matinee may get across the highway before the heavy traffic starts back from the game at Stanford.

Chase Ends In Driver's Arrest

Six Shots Fired at Fleeing Machine Before Car Is Stopped

Antone Rutz, 22, a milkman, was arrested at 2 o'clock yesterday morning after a chase by Redwood City police officers from Four Points to Atherton. Police Officers Fleishman, Mengles and Fitzgerald started the chase when they observed a car being driven in an eratic manner along the highway a short distance north of Whipple avenue.

When Rutz saw that he was being followed by the police car, he tried to get away and speeded up his machine. Failing to gain on the speeding car the officers fired a shot at the car. Rutz refused to stop and five other shots were fired. He was finally brought to a halt when a bullet struck one of his tires.

Rutz was brought to the county jail and is charged with operating an automobile while intoxicated.

County Pictures Seen in Chicago Tourist Offices

Permanent Showing of Views From Here Arranged by Roscoe Wyatt

The county chamber of commerce has completed arrangements with the Chicago office of the San Francisco Convention and Tourist Bureau at 209 North Michigan avenue, Chicago, Illinois, to place a permanent display of San Mateo county photographic enlargements on the main floor where thousands will see the scenic residential and cultural attractions of the peninsula. The two largest are each 40 x50 inches in size and are hand colored enlargements of photographs of flowering fields near San Carlos and redwood trees in the County Memorial Park. Two others are 20x40 in size and show the Methuselah redwood on the Skyline boulevard and the picturesque lighthouse at Pigeon Point. Twelve more are 16x20 all in sepia finish and showing the El Camino Real at Millbrae, La Honda highway, St. Paul's at Burlingame, San Mateo High, Sequoia High at Redwood City, redwood portal on Skyline highway, Skyline boulevard, winding road, Pilarcitos creek, Halfmoon Bay road to Ocean, Merner residence near San Mateo, Crocker estate in Hillsborough and Butano Falls in Butano canyon.

Manager Wyatt also reports that the Chicago office of the Bureau has notified him to hold in reserve a print of the county scenic film for use of Mrs. Anne Allen who is to give a series of lectures on central and northern California before clubs and schools of Chicago.

One print of the county film in use in Chicago during the past year was seen by more than 13,000 people and has resulted in many inquiries.

The Chicago office of the bureau says, 'we shall be happy to make a special window display featuring San Mateo county for the edification of the multitudes who pass our place of business."

Convicts From Here Assigned to Duties

Work as a janitress in the woman's prison was the assignment given Tuesday to Mrs. Minnie Roderick, sent to San Quentin on October 15 from this county to serve a life sentence for the murder of her husband, Frank Roderick, on the Roderick ranch in La Honda, May 15.

William Woodring, Mrs. Roderick's alleged lover, and sentenced with her, also for life, was put to work in the general mess room as a floor mopper.

The trial of Mrs. Roderick and Woodring was one of the most sensational in the history of San Mateo county and attracted crowded courtrooms during the week it was held. The body of Roderick was found by Sheriff James J. McGrath, his deputies and Constable F. B. Grill at the bottom of a 26-foot well, filled in on the Roderick ranch in La Honda.

The beauties of Paris were described, and Father Cavanaugh paid a warm tribute to the permanence and stability of the British Empire.

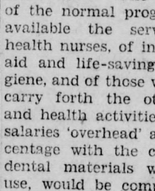
Lions Club Will Assume Task of Red Cross Funds

Annual Roll Call Will Start This Year November 11; Need Great



The Redwood City Lions club will assume this year the raising of funds for the annual Red Cross roll call The Lions club has taken this work as part of their service work to the community, and will relieve a few ladies who have been responsible for the entire task in the past. The roll call will begin on Armistice Day, November 11, and will continue until Thanksgiving Day, November 27.

One of the most active workers for the Redwood City chapter has been Mrs. Z. T. Thorning, who stated yesterday in regard to the proposed roll call that the Red Cross operates under as low an overhead as is consistent with efficiency.

From July 1, 1929, to June 30, 1930, the national body spent for all purposes the sum of $4,308,000 at a cost of $276,900 or 6½ per cent. Mrs. Thorning pointed out that there are probably few firms doing a yearly business of $4,000,000 or more at so small an overhead.

"The Red Cross, because of the elasticity of its personnel, is able to administer a much larger sum with substantially the same amount of expense," Mrs. Thorning said. For example, during the year 1927-1928, because of the appeal for funds for the Mississippi flood, the total amount expended was more than $18,000,000. The overhead on this huge sum was only 3 per cent."

"The establishing of a ratio between 'overhead' as compared to 'relief' is a very complex problem in an organization which carries on such a multiple service and educational program as the Red Cross," Mrs. Thorning said.

"The normal program of the Red Cross," said Mr. McClintock, "is one of education and trained service in the fields which constitute its peace-time program. With the exception of the disaster relief service, the regular activities of the organization do not contemplate as major objectives the giving of material relief. The major objective of the normal program is to make available the services of public health nurses, of instructors in first aid and life-saving and home hygiene, and of those who organize and carry forth the other educational and health activities. To call their salaries 'overhead' and strike a percentage with the cost of the incidental materials which they may use, would be comparable to comparing the physician's fee with the cost of the medicine he may prescribe."

Mrs. Thorning added that all expenditures of the national Red Cross were audited each year by the United States War department and the report submitted to Congress. The books of the organization are open to examination at any time.

REDWOOD YOUTH LANDS BIG FISH

Franklin Rufus Swart, 13-year-old son of District Attorney Frank Swart proved himself some fisherman Wednesday of this week. Fishing with his parents from their launch on Whiskey Slough, a tributary of the San Joaquin river near Galt, Franklin, Jr., landed a 30-pound striped bass. The catch was one of the largest and most beautiful specimens ever seen in this part of the state. The fish is on exhibition in the windows of the Post Office Market at Broadway and Winslow street, where it has attracted a great deal of attention.

Rather an amusing incident occurred while Franklin, Jr., was pulling in his catch. Two colored men in a row boat close to the scene were so overcome with excitement when they saw the size of the fish that they both fell out of the boat into the water.

MAN HELD FOR FAILURE TO PROVIDE FOR FAMILY

Fred Giesy, 35, cook of Daly City, was arrested by Constable Landini Wednesday, and is charged with failure to provide for his family. He was booked at the county jail and held for lack of $250 cash set by Justice of the Peace Ellis C. Johnson.

Many Children To Take Part In Interesting Part of County Festival

The San Mateo County Fall Flower Festival will be inaugurated on Friday, October 24, with a Junior Floral parade at 2:30, which will wend its way through the streets of San Mateo to Second avenue, where a colorful exhibit will be opened in the building and grounds of the Junior College.

The parade committee, made up of Dr. J. M. Foley, chairman, Callen Tjader, Miss Pansy Jewett Abbott, Miss Winnifred Burke, Mrs. Astor C. Keene, all of San Mateo, Mrs. H. B. Sprague of Burlingame and Miss Louise Daly of Hillsborough, announce that more than 1,000 children, from the tiny ones of the primary grades to the big boys and girls from the high schools, Boy Scouts and Girl Reserves, will participate.

With gorgeous chrysanthemums, russet, yellow and white, carnations, roses and dahlias, and all the flowers that have made San Mateo county famous over the whole country, decorating the floats in wonderful profusion, the parade will be a thing of colorful beauty.

The exhibit, which will continue through Saturday and Sunday, will have many novel displays of the utilitarian vegetable and the autumn fruits, in all the glory of their fall colorings, according to P. H. Graves, manager of the show.

The chrysanthemums will be queen of the festival, and will be shown in all sizes, from the smal' button variety, to the immense blooms which are so popular during football season and for Thanksgiving decorations. The colors will range from purest white, through all the shades of yellow, pink and russet, some of the creamy white blossoms reminding one of a huge confection.

The young people are taking special interest in assembling specimens of native California shrubs and trees with their names attached. Trophies will be offered for the best collections.

BELMONT MAN DIES FROM BULLET FIRED AT LIGHT

Manslaughter Charges Placed Against Two San Mateo Men As Result of Shooting of John Mills In Belmont After Liquor Party

Wounds received when he was shot through a door of his establishment at Belmont early Sunday morning proved fatal Wednesday morning for John Mills, alleged boot legger, who died at the Mills Memorial hospital. Following Mills' death charges of manslaughter were brought against John J. Hennessey, San Mateo police officer, and Tom Casey, pool room proprietor of San Mateo.

Mills was shot according to the story told by Hennessey and Casey when the two San Mateo men went to Mills' house to secure a gallon of whiskey for a party. Both Casey and Hennessey admitted that they had been at a party where liquor was served and that when the liquor ran out they had gone in search of more.

At Mills' place they had pounded on the door and when Mills did not answer Hennessey conceived the idea of shooting out the lights with his police pistol. A shot at the light beside the dood missed the light but passed through the door about a foot below the light, and struck Mills who was coming to the door.

Mills, a revolver in his hand staggered through the door calling for help. It was found that the bullet had passed through his abdomen. He was taken to the hospital by Gilbert Moore, who arrived at the place just at that time.

Following the shooting both Hennessey and Casey were charged with assault with a deadly weapon. This charge was changed to manslaughter when Mills died.

It is understood that District Attorney Swart has a list of names of a number of people prominent in the county who were at the resort when the shot was fired, and that these will be called as witnesses at the trial of the two men.

When told of the death of Mills Hennessey is said to have collapsed. He has been suspended from the San Mateo police force.

Mills is survived by his mother, who was visiting in New York. She is expected to arrive in San Mateo this morning.

Firemen's Dance Tomorrow Eve

Department Meets Generous Response From People In Ticket Sale

The Redwood City Firemen are all ready for their big dance, which takes place tomorrow evening in the Foresters Hall. This is an annual event with the firemen and always proves to be one of the real social affairs of the season, with dancers attending from all parts of the Peninsula. The net proceeds of the dance go toward the fund that is used to carry on the activities of the organization during the year, the department being practically a volunteer one. The ticket committee reports a most generous response on the part of the citizens of the community in their appeal for aid in making the dance a success.

Fred Lamb's 8-piece orchestra will furnish the music for the dancing, which will start at 9 o'clock and continue until one.

The firemen have arranged for card games upstairs in the hall for those who do not care to dance. The games will start at 8:30 o'clock.

Hallowe'en One Night

It may seem a bit unjust to the very young whose Hallowe'en frolic is to be confined to one night alone, but it is very appropriate restriction on the increasing number of "rough-necks" who choose several nights this time of year to commit vandalism.

The pitiful thing is that Hallowe'en, fascinating ceremony that it has been for many, many years, pretext for many acts of mischief, has been distorted by a few disorderlies in many communities into an occasion for senseless destruction of public and private property.

Householders can endure much from children and even the older ones conceived in the spirit of fun, but when property is wrecked or air let of tires of a large fleet of automobiles, the most popular thing the police can do is to use clubs and handcuffs on the rowdies if they can be caught.

The Nation almost lost a Fourth of July celebration because the extremists knew no limits. Other holidays have been imperilled also by the inappropriate observance, Hallowe'en is too picturesque and ancient a ceremony to be ruined by a few toughs.

What Makes A City Great?

A prominent citizen of New York has his ideas as to the requirement for building a community. One of his popular sayings is found on a calendar published by his company. It reads:

"So you must look for something more than natural advantages to explain the growth and prosperity of some cities. You must look for the men. One man, perhaps, in the community can give that city or that district the impetus that rolls up and makes it a wonderful city, while some other city of greater natural advantages never is able to equal it."

There was a saying of Benjamin Franklin's that "there is more in the man than there is in the land." It is the quality of the citizens after all, and not the quantity, which makes a town great.

Hustling men in a community, men of vision and energy, give a distinctive stamp to a town. These things make a community go. The character and ability of the people are more valuable than numbers. In enumerating the advantages of a town, they are obliged to be considered. For there is no other element that can compare with them.

Contrasts Are Stimulating

It's the contrasts that make life enjoyable. Those who work in the city get relaxation in the country. The farmer gets his "kick' when he comes to the city. Hard work gives spice to play: fatigue adds pleasure to sleep. Many think they would be supremely happy if they never had to work at all. They would for about three months. Then their freedom from responsibility and useful activity would become irksome, and they would long for the opportunity to test their mind and muscle on a hard task.

Happiness is elusive. We capture it, hold it for a moment, and then it disappears, sometimes leaving us in a new environment, but face to face with the same old personality and temperament that distinguish us from all other human beings. Tho we alter our occupation, these shadows are with us.

Get Work You Like

Is your work getting you some place or is it just filling your days? If you are sure you are in the wrong line, if you are sure you have powers you are not using, don't let anybody tell you to keep plugging along—and think he is giving you good advice. Get out and get under. See what the matter is. Get into something you love to do. Seek opportunity for the expression of your powers. Get work that gets you somewhere.

Traffic's Greatest Danger

There is more to the safe and sane operation of a motor car than the regulation of foot pressure on the accelerator. Steering is an important thing, and there are reckless hands on many steering wheels. One of the worst offenses and one of the greatest dangers to traffic is the habit of many motorists in forcing their way through regardless of conditions.

Rolph Given Ovation

By D. E. O'KEEFE

The outpouring of friends and admirers that greeted James Rolph at the big rally in Dreamland Rink, San Francisco, Monday evening last was a simple testimony of the worth and popularity of the next Governor of California. The ovation accorded the mayor was sincere and genuine. It came from the hearts of friends, who have followed the career of Mr. Rolph from his entrance into politics twenty years ago when he was elected mayor of his native city, until his election of governor of his native state. The vast enclosure of the rink was crowded with an enthusiastic, cheering mass of well wishers and friends of the republican standard bearer for governor. His address to the multitude was brief but earnest and clear. Mr. Rolph declared, as governor, he would encourage capital to invest in industries that would bring employment to the unemployed. That he would continue the work on the highway system, giving work to those without employment. In eloquent tones he declared "there can be no genuine prosperity until labor is employed at good wages.' The utterance brought forth an applause seldom witnessed in gatherings of this kind. He said there would be no politics in road biulding, thus showing that the money so expended would be for the benefit of the people and not wasted in paying political obligations. He showed his devotion to San Francisco and the state by words of elopuence in referring to the city as the greatest in the world and California the finest and best in the union.

Frank Merriam, candidate for lieutenant governor, paid a nice tribute to Mr. Rolph as did ex-Governor Richardson, Ex-Governor Gillette, Senator Fellom, J. L. McNabb, the peerless orator, and M. L. Requa, chairman of the evening. Marshal Hale, chairman of the state central committee in a short and well phrased speech, introduced Mr. Requa, who demonstrated wonderful ability as a presiding officer. Many republicans of San Mateo county had seats upon the platform. The county gave Mr. Rolph a substantial majority in the recent primary election for which Mr. Rolph and the state republican organization feel grateful.

George A. Kneese

The election of George A. Kneese, candidate for county surveyor, means that his present large organization he maintains in his work will not be disturbed. His forty employes with their families make up a unit of Redwood City's population that will be missed should they have to seek other localities. These men patronize local merchants, contribute to the social and religious affairs of the city and pay taxes. Their departure would be a direct injury to the locality.

Mr. Kneese has made a good and faithful official. Why change? A new man, if elected, would of necessity make a change in the present force which would disturb the efficiency of the office, now accounted to be one of the best managed in the state. There is no need of making a change at this time. It would serve no purpose. The voters ought to retain a true and tried official in office. Mr. Kneese has proved his efficiency.

George A. Kneese, is maintaining one of the largest engineering organizations in the State right here in Redwood City. The reason for selecting Redwood City for its headquarters was Mr. Kneese's election to the office of County Surveyor. Under ordinary circumstances a location more central in the County would be more desirable. Consolidation of his private engineering practice with the work to be performed for San Mateo County has worked out to the mutual advantage of the taxpayers and himself. Data and records accumulated in private work, many of them long before his election, are available to the public and information from these records has at all times been unstintingly given to anyone desiring it. The most thorough and up to date accounting methods have been employed in keeping public and private payroll and other costs separated.

Selective Immigration

As a further means of reducing unemployment and hastening the return of affairs to a sound economic basis in this country, it is expected that legislation will be introduced at the next session of Congress providing for strictly selective immigration. This system would give preference to those immigrants who would fill a need in a particular field. And, it is sugested, that the number from each country should be restricted to the pesent quotas. Under the present system aliens who first file application and pass the required tests are first admitted.

While such a selective basis of immigrataion might help to solve the problem temporarily, the time is rapidly approaching, if not here, when immigration must be checked entirely. The farms of this country are already overpopulated and production is exceeding demand. In the industrial fields the same is true.

Therefore, the addition of workmen to fields that are already filled necessarily means increased unemployment, lowered wages and general depression. Those who favor unrestricted immigration into this country must face facts and admit that the absolute restriction of immigration must be adopted in the near future as a self-protective measure.

CONCERNING THE ACTION AND CHARACTERS

Sally Todd and Lois Montgomery leave home to seek their fortunes in New York.

Sally's brother, Bert, who is in love with Lois, follows them.

Lois meets a young man whom she knew when she was a wealthy woman's secretary.

He and a chap named FRISBY show her and Sally little attention, but Lois' thoughts are chiefly on the problems of existence.

Lois finally gets a job with a firm of interior decorators. Sally struggles for a foothold in the movies. They have a hard time making both ends meet.

Sally enters hospital training, finally convinced that the films hold no future for her.

Lois is absorbed i nher own work.

During her employer's illness, she is sent to the palatial residence of James Walton to make a preliminary report.

Sally's liking for gay company causes a coolness between herself and Lois.

It also involves Lois in difficulties with Bert.

Lois is strongly attracted to Walton, who is much older than herself, and very rich and distinguished. —She finds him very cold and domineering.

—He demands she give up her friendship with Sally.

Sally, meanwhile, is in hot water at the hospital, because she is too fond of a good time.

Chapter 25.

The Reckoning

The night light burned low in the sick-room, where there was silence, expect for an occasional sigh or moan from the woman on the hospital bed. It was long after midnight and the street noises were hushed. Occasionally the far-away tinkle of a bell showed that others were wakeful too in the great building that housed so much pain and suffering.

The sick woman stirred and opened eyes bright with fever. They rested on a motionless figure in a chair just outside the radius of the night light. She could see the familiar blue-gray of a linen uniform and one slim foot. A blonde head dropped against the back of the chair. Sally was sleeping peacefully. The patient crept from under the covers. Sally failed to move. Very softly, the woman stepped to the floor. She was gray and middle-aged and terribly emaciated. Bright fever spots burned on either cheekbone.

Watching the sleeping Sally, she crept toward the door. Something in her fevered brain bade her leave this place in which she had suffered. Something urged her to beware of the woman who slept in the chair.

She opened the door, very, very softly. Sally slept on. The weariness that was part of the after effect of the drug still gripped her. But suddenly a piercing scream softly. Sally slept on. The wearin in a flash, dazed, with every nerve quivering. Her glance went instantly to the bed. Empty!

A wild-eyed Sally ran full-tilt into the night nurse in the corridor. The other girl gasped: "Quick! In Number 36. . . . It's empty. . . . She ran in there"

Together they dashed into the dark, vacant room An open window and a trailing shade told the story.

The two girls sped to the window, dreading to look out. A crumpled figure lay — not on the sidewalk five stories below, as they expected, but on the floor of the balcony of the room directly underneath.

Sally never remembered what happened after that. They told her later that she'd fainted. When she regained consicousness, she was in her own room and her roommate was telling her that the patient had suffered no greater injury than a sprained wrist. Her own nurse had arrived and taken charge of her.

After delivering herself of this cheering news, Sally's roommate was silent. She sat huddled up in her bed, with a kimona flung around her shoulders, and stared at Sally gravely. Sitting on the edge of her own cot, her chin in her palms, Sally stared vacantly at the floor. Her uniform was disheaveled and her hair moist with the water they had used to bring her out of her faint. She felt as though the end of the world had come. The end of her world had come. She saw that plainly enough.

Her roommate said abruptly: "You went to sleep didn't you?"

Sally nodded. "Do they know?" she asked dully.

"I think so. How could they help it? Gosh, you were lucky that the patient didn't break her neck. I suppose they could have had you up for murder or something."

Sally said slowly: "Even that couldn't be much worse. . . .What am I going to do?" She wrung her hands suddenly.

The other girl stared at her sympathetically. It's a tough break all right. And just a week before graduation!"

"I suppose I havn't a chance."

"I don't believe so. I've always heard it's the worst thing a nurse can do — to sleep on duty. It's almost as bad as giving a wrong dose."

Sally rose wearily to her feet. "Well, I suppose I might as well turn in and try to get a snatch of sleep during the rest of the night, so I can face the ordeal tomorrow. Weeping about it isn't going to mend matters."

She undressed and tumbled into bed, but she couldn't sleep. She thought bitterly: "If I could have been this wide awake an hour ago!"

When the alarm-clock uttered its preliminary tinkle, she hadn't closed her eyes. She reached over and shut it off and called to her roommate. The girl opened her sleepy eyes, and Sally said bitterly:

"You'd better take your last look at me in this twin bed. I have a hunch I won't be here when you turn in tonight. I can kind of see myself being turned out."

She was not mistaken.

SUED FOR SAVING HAT

ALBANY, N. Y. (UP)—Burton Albright faces a $10,000 damage suit, because he attempted to save a hat from under the wheels of his automobile. In swerving to avoid running over the hat, Albright allegedly caused two other machines to collide. Mrs. Ida M. Garrison, an occupant of one, is the complainant.

UNEXPLODED SHELL FOUND

ROCHESTER, N. Y., (UP)—Four unexploded shells, buried eight feet in the ground on Inspiration Point were found by Frank Maibaum. The shells, weighed about nine pounds and were badly corroded. The possibility that the missiles were buried during the Civil War, or the Spanish-American War, was suggested.

Y. M. C. A. THANKS PAPERS

Redwood City, California.
October 18, 1930.

Redwood City Standard and Times-Gazette,
Redwood City, California.

On behalf of the San Mateo County Young Men's Christian Association and the Redwood City Committee, I want to thank you many times over for the splendid publicity you gave during the finance campaign for the work of this organization. Through your co-operatiaon and that of fifty-eight hard working go-getters of Redwood City we have again been able to show the communities of the Peninsula the spirit that goes along with the city "Where the Climate's Best By Government Test."

The Y. M. C. A. is striving to give a maximum of service for the money which the public-spirited people of Redwood City have given in the support of this organization. Through its character-building program, and leaders who are men with high ideals, it is seeking to help youth over the pitfalls and help them to develop a high type of useful citizenship. The Association does not stop with this. The secretaries are willing to serve in the work of the community wherever possible. They are called upon weekly for talks, community singing, serving on special committees, etc.

Not only the campaign publicity but the many inches of space which you give weekly has helped keep the public informed of the association's activities. This has meant much in the development of this work.

Yours very truly,
D. W. WILLIAMS,
Redwood City General Chairman

Football Fans Awaiting Clash At Cards' Bowl

Capacity Crowd Expected At Game of Stanford and Southern California

Eighty-eight thousand citizens of the Pacific Coast are today on edge for their trek to the Stanford stadium Saturday afternoon, where they will witness the annual gridiron battle between the Trojans of southern California and the Cardinals of Stanford. The mammoth bowl will be filled to capacity for the first time this season and the great clash of brain and brawn between the men of Howard Jone s and Glenn Warner promises to be one of the most colorful events on the sports calendar this year.

Thousands of people are coming from southern California by rail, highway, water and air. The bay district will furnish the largest portion of the crowd, but many fans from neighboring states and a few from the other side of the Rockies will fill out the throng.

Trojan and Cardinal bands will vie before the kickoff time and between halves for the plaudits of the crowd. These are two of the most colorful collegiate musical organizations in the country, and each will have more than a hundred men in uniform Saturday.

The Stanford and southern California yell leaders will command rooting sections of 2,000 and 3,000 leather lunged students, respectively. The rival rally committees will be on hand hours before the contest plotting out many intricate stunts which the two cheering sections will execute between halves of the football game.

The Trojan gridders will be clad in their traditional red perseys while the Cardinals will have white jerseys with cardinal stripes.

The OBJECT of the Electric Railway Tax Equalization Amendment (Number Four on the ballot) is to reclassify for taxation purposes the electric railways of California as distinct from the steam railroads and to place the taxes of the electric railways on an equality with taxes paid on common property and by the motor bus and stage companies. It is:

BASED on the California Tax Commission's findings that the electric railways "bear a disproportionately large tax burden."

Seaquoia To Meet Old Time Rival On Local Field

Out to regain their lost prestige, the Sequoia varsity football team will battle the San Mateo varsity in their league encounter of the season on the Sequoia field next Friday afternoon.

San Mateo boosts of a fast team though they have lost a number of veterans who held up their weight average. The Bearcats, under Coach Bert Griffin, seem to be coming right along, having held Palo Alto to a tie in their first league game.

The Cherokees have faced hard luck this season with many injuries marking their appearances on the gridiron. Coaches Ray Dimick and Len Casanova are putting the varsity through some tough scrimmages and other various workouts in order to smooth out the weak spots in the Cherokees lineup.

The local fans are looking forward to the outcome of the San Jose vs. San Mateo game and Palo Alto vs. Burlingame encounter, the results of these contests should tend to decide the outcome of the league. The Palo Alto game, which is Sequoia high's "big game", is scheduled for the week after the San Mateo contest and will be held on the local turf.

Bride Rides Fire Engine

DORMANS LAND, Surrey—(UP)—A bride drove through pouring rain for two miles on the village fire engine in her wedding dress after her marriage to a fireman.

12 o'clock Saturday in the preliminary to the southern California-Stanford contest. Neither the Gael nor the Cardinal youngsters have been beaten this year and it is expected that an extremely close game will open the afternoon's festivities. St. Mary's is a slight favorite due to its overwhelming victory over the University of California yearlings two weeks ago. Coach Jimmy Bradshaw's baby redshirts, however, made a fine showing last Saturday, in defeating the highly touted U. C. L. A. freshmen by a score of 21-6, and may spring a surprise on the lads from Moraga.

YALE ROWING COACH HUNTS NEW STROKE FOR VARSITY

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 24 (UP) — Crew Coach Ed Leader has started this fall the task of finding a stroke oar for Yale's varsity crew.

Loss of Art Palmer, varsity stroke two years ago and Woody Tappen, stroke of last season's highly-successful eight, probably will prepiex Leader until the rowing season opens next spring. Irving and Shepard, who rowed on the second varsity and freshman crews last June, are chief contestants in fall practice.

Leader has three crews on the Housatonic River every week day.

Singer Will Face Tony Canzoneri

Al Singer, lightweight champion, is to meet Tony Carzoneri just four weeks from tonight. Al's title will be risked in this battle. The fight looks like a natural. Al's punch, and the roving and ceaseless activity of "Tony Can" should create no little interest in this event. Al is a Jew. Tony is an Italian. There are lots of Jews and Italians in New York, and many of them are fight fans.

Keep an Eye On 1931 Senators

Now that Joe McCarthy has taken charge of the New York Yankees, he and many others are talking of the possibility of the club "beating out the Athletics next year."

What about the Washington Senators being right up there just about as close to the top as anyone else?

During the recent world series, which drew many Washington fans to Philadelphia, we heard a great deal about the Senators of 1930. It appears they were quite a ball club, and defeated the A's in 12 of the 22 games played between these teams.

Washington fans will tell you that their club can keep right on beating the Mackmen, who, they say, won the pennant this year by defeating second division teams.

Second Division Club Victories

Of course, a victory over a second division club shows up just as large in the pencentage columns as one over your closest rival for the flag, and if the Washington club was as hot as some of its ardent admirers make out, it had a similiar chance to gain at the expense of the Red Sox and White Sox.

It seems to me, however, that there is considerable truth in the claims of the Capital fans, and I look for the Senators of 1931 to be quite a ball club. For one thing, Walter Johnson was worn with sorrow and ill health and hardly in shape to give his best to managing the club during the past season. If Walter gets around to feeling like putting his heart into baseball again, with the material he has already in hand for 1931, he should be able to give any club in the league a fight for the pennant.

Best Shortstop In Game

In young Cronin, for example Johnson has a boy now generally recognized as the best shortstop in the business. He has a gradually improving pitching staff, some trading material and altogether bright prospects for 1931.

The Athletics, think many who saw them in the world series, may have to be pulled apart before they are wound up for the next pennant race. Bing Miller, Mule Haas, Max Bishop, Joe Boley, and Jimmy Dykes all are uncertain of their place in next year's line-up at Philadelphia. The A's are not going to be any stronger in 1931, at any rate. The Senators should be.

Yes, it certainly will be advisable for Joe McCarthy, when he's tuning up his new Yankee clipper to race the A's, to keep an eye peeled for some thunder from down Washington way.

The Boxing Title Season in Starter

Midget Wolgast the hop o' my thumb boxer of Philadelphia, and Frankie Genaro, start off the winter boxing championship program by meeting in Madison Square Garden, seeking to determine which shall be declared prince of the flyweights. It's not possible that flyweights could have "Kings" as the larger classes do.

The New York State athletic commission regards Wolgast as the top man in his division. Genaro has the backing of the National Boxing Association. Which support is the more important may not be definitely stated, but it's possible, and as far as the writer is concerned, moderately certain that the dukes of Manhattan outrank the national body.

Anyway, unless there be a draw the rival commissions will be unanimous about the flyweight title holding after the Wolgast-Genaro session.

MENLO PARK

The city council made history at is meeting Tuesday night in awardfor the first street contract for paving. All members were present with the exception of Councilman Blake. The mayor suspended the regular order of business and took up the matter of opening bids for the improvement of Hoover street, this being the time set for awarding the contract.

After the bids were read they were given to City Engineer Mehl for compilation. In a half hour the engineer returned with the result of his work. The names and their bids were as follows:

W. A. Dantonville, $6610.27; Kavanaugh Construction Co., $7121.01; M. J. Bevenda, $8452.59; J. P. Holland, $10,757.87 B F. Cain, $6365.27; Irving R. Ryder, $6523.35. By roll call and a resolution B. F. Cain, being the lowest responsible bidder was awarded the contract. Cain is a local contractor who has done considerable road construction in this locality. The councilmen were happy in giving out the work for the first paved street to be done under the city government in Menlo Park. Should the improvements prove satisfactory many more streets in town will be done very soon. The figures received were low and met with the approval of the engineer and council. The price per lot for the paving of the streets and sidewalks will be about $170, $3.40 per lineal foot The property owners on the street are delighted with the low figures and when the street is finished they are going to give a street dance. The thoroughfare is named after President Hoover so that the awarding of the contract to improve it has a national significance.

The Menlo Park zoning ordinance was finally adopted on motion of Anderson, seconded by Dale. It will not be effective for thirty days. For over two years the council has wrestled with the question of securing a satisfactory zoning law. A former council dismissed its planning commission that had worked diligently on the plan for a long time. The ordinance prepared by the former commission is practically the same as the one adopted at this meeting with the exception of a few minor changes.

The council adjourned to meet October 28.

Edward O' Keefe, Dan Ryan and F. Roach returned from a duck hunting trip to Willows Sunday with the limit. They report the birds plentiful. Their hunting was done on a private preserve in the rice fields, where ducks come to feed.

The Jewish Women's Welfare Auxiliary will give a Hallowe'en masquerade on Saturday evening, Nov. 1st at Entin home near Santa Cruz avenue. The young folks are looking forward to an enjoyable evening.

D. E. O'Keefe, a member of the Republican state central committee and Mayor W. H. Weeden atteanded the big Republican rally in Dreamland rink Monday evening. They had seats on the platform and were heartily greeted by Mayor Rolph.

Major Albert J. Galen, who is the Republican candidate for U. S. Senator in the state of Montana, running against Senator Thomas J. Walsh, is widely known in Menlo Park. Galen was here during the ar as head of Camp Fremont. He became a great friend of the late John MacBain, then supervisor, both both co-operating in aiding the camp. Galen took an active part in all activities here and became well acquainted in the community After the war and on his return to Montana, Galen was elected a member of the supreme court, a position he now holds. He is popular in his native state, and his prospects for election are good.

All the high dignitaries of the Native Daughters will be present.

Edward Francis of Halfmoon Bay was run over by a motorcycle driven by a San Francisco man on Valparaiso and the highway Wednesday evening. The driver of the motorcycle did not stop after the accident. The injured man was taken to the Palo Alto hospital where he was treated for an injured leg.

George A. Kneese, candidate to succeed himself as county surveyor, is making a successful canvass for re-election. His vote in Menlo Park next month will be considerably larger than it was at the primary. His friends here realized that he has made a good official, has been efficient and capable and there is no reason for a change in the office at this time. His election is practically assured.

Cardinal Hayes and Archbishop E. J. Hanna, visited Corpus Christi Monastery and St. Patrick's Seminary on Tuesday. Two traffic officers escorted the two dignitaries down the peninsula. Cardinal Hayes expressed himself as delighted with this section of the state. During the week he visited all the old missions of the south.

The Associated Ool Company will shortly begin the removal of Roper's grocery store to the end of the lot adjoining the Larrecou property. The two buildings in which are located the barber shop and tailor establishment are to be wrecked as are the other buildings fronting on Oak Grove avenue. The council has granted the company the right to remove the structure occupied by Roper. This may be done as there was no zoing laws in effect at the time the application for removal was no zoning laws in effect at the building runs for two more years, otherwise the structure would have been wrecked with the others. The company is to beautify the corner, making it attractive by green lawns and shrubbery. The old corner known in pioneer days as the "Dead Dog" is to become one of the beauty spots of Menlo Park.

England's Giant Seaplane Develops 140 Mile Speed

LONDON, Oct 24 (UP)—Bit by bit new facts about the two large sea-going aircraft soon to be used by the Royal Air Force experimental base for marine aircraft at Felixstowe are becoming known.

The Short "Valetta," said to be the largest float seaplane in the world, flies almost daily over the River Medway at Rochester.

It is now known that the "Valetta" has flown at a little more than 140 miles an hour and has carried a total load, including the structure, of more than ten tons.

Seventeen thousand feet is given as the ceiling for this big three-motored plane. The range with a maximum load on board is placed at 520 miles. Airlcooled radial engines of 490 h.p. each furnish the speed.

The other partner in the new British flying couple is the Blackboat with three moderately supercharged watercooled Rolls-Royce 500 h.p. engines. This craft is also a monoplane and is designed in a slightly different form as a flying boat air liner. With the exception of the fabric covering the superstructure, the aircraft is built entirely of metal. Nine tons constitute the total weight of the loaded aircraft which cruises at a speed of about 100 miles an hour. The craft can cruise from four to eight hours, depending on the load carried.

FORD BORING TUNNEL UNDER CITY STREETS

Queer Machine Drills Through Mud Toward River's Bank

DETROIT, Oct. 23 (UP)—A tunnel which will supply the Ford Motor Company's Rouge plant with more water per day than is used by the cities of Detroit, Philadelphia, Cincinnati and Washington combined, is being bored 60 feet beneath streets, creeks and railroads, on the western edge of Detroit.

The tunnel, part of a $4,000,000 project to increase the capacity of the Rouge factory's power plant, is 2.2 miles long, and connects the factory with the channel of the Rouge river.

The "shield" method of boring is used. A heavy steel cylinder, its end faced with a 2-inch steel plate, is pushed by hydrolic pressure through the soft clay 60 feet below the surface of the ground. Openings 2 feet square in the cylinder head allow the clay to escape into the tunnel, rolling forth in thick ribbons as tooth paste comes from a tube.

Workers slice off the putty-like mud and send it to the surface.

The interior of the shaft is lined with steel blocks as the "shield" creeps forward and the tunnel lengthens.

The greatest care is necessary to take out only the amount of clay displaced by the tunnel-cylinder. Occasionally too much is removed through the square openings in the shield, and the street or land above sinks in consequence; or too little dirt is removed, which compresses the earth and results in a bump on the surface.

But throughout the winding length of the tunnel no serious unheaval is visible on the surface. At one spot the Ford engineers were forced to burrow under a creek at the point where the creek was already crossed by a sewer tunnel. Neither the stream bed nor the sewer were disturbed by the passage of the 20-foot shaft beneath them.

The power which advances the shield is brought to the hydraulic jacks by a two-inch pipe, at the other end of which a 125-horse-power engine maintains two tons of pressure per square inch.

The shield progresses at a rate og about 40 feet a day. The tunnel was started in August 1929, and will be completed in 1931.

INDIANS FAVOR PEYOTE CULT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (UP)—The peyote cult, strange and ancient religion, is making progress among the Indian tribes of the Middle West, despite a strong modernist — fundamentalist controversy which splits it membership.

The religion, based on the curious effects of eating the peyote button, or dried top of a spineless cactus, is now the subject of an extensive study,

Dr. Maurice G. Smith, of the University of Oklahoma, who is making the investigation, has pointed out that while some of the Oklahoma groups keep the Bible on the alter and almost always use the name of Christ in their prayers, the "modernists" wish to entend this so as to constitute a distinct Christian sect. The fundamentalists are fighting for retention of the Indian traditions.

Upon eating the peyote button one receives curious physiological effects, presumably resulting in an exalted feeling and visions. This, according to Dr. Smith, is the white man's interpretation based on experiments.

The purpose of the study corducted by Dr. Smith is to determine whether the practise has a bad physical or moral effect. The ethic of the cult stresses the virtue of honesty, charity and temperance. The cult originated in Mexico.

VOL. LXXI., NUMBER 31. REDWOOD CITY, SAN MATEO COUNTY, CALIFORNIA. FRIDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1930. ESTABLISHED IN 1859.

HE GOT THE JOB—AND KEPT IT

One day in 1882 a boy applied for a job with the Bell Telephone Company at Boston and was put to work dismantling old telephones. His workbench was in an attic at 109 Court Street, in a room next to that in which, on June 2, 1875, Alexander Graham Bell discovered the principles of transmitting speech by electricity. The boy, George K. Thompson, who now lives in Maplewood, N. J., soon outgrew the job of salvaging useful parts from useless telephones and was assigned to the work of developing new forms of apparatus. Individually or in cooperation with other engineers, he has had a part in the development of many forms of equipment that go to make up the facilities for nation-wide and international telephone service, including 64 types of receiver and 96 types of transmitter. More than forty patents have been issued to Mr. Thompson personally, and he has had a hand in the research work involved in many other inventions. Above (left) Mr. Thompson today and when he took his first telephone job. At right, the Birthplace of the Telephone—second window from right, top floor. The third window from the right lighted Thompson's first telephone engineering operations.

Negroes Believe "Father Of Waters" Is Purifier

By WILLIAM A. BELL, JR.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 24 (UP)—Negro Baptists believe that the chocolate colored water of the Mississippi is a great purifier. Every year thousands of "sinners" are immersed in the river.

Ferry passengers have frequent occasion to see an epochal event in Negro Baptist religious life—baptism in the Mississippi river.

It is usually on Sunday, on the west bank of the river, opposite New Orelans. Swather in long, loose white robes and hoods the negroes parade down the levee slopes and step into the murky river. There they stand waist deep until their turn comes to be baptized.

The officiating clergy and deacons, clad in black and white robes, half immersed, receive the candidates.

The "head man" takes hold of the candidate and with a rolling bass chants: "I baptize thee in the name of the Father and of the Son, and of the H-o-o-ly G'os," and, seizing the initiate's nose, immerses him.

As the candidates parade up to be baptized a group of negroes on a pier sing "Hallelujahs" and chant triumphant hymns in deep, rich voices.

The initiates, especially the women, as they are immersed, shriek for the salvation of their souls.

After the baptism is over the "full-fledged Baptists" steps out of the muddy current and go home.

The last will and testament of Father Henry A. Ayrinhac was filed in the county clerk's office at Redwood City late yesterday afternoon. The estate is valued at less than $2500. It consists of his library, which he bequeaths to St. Patrick's Seminary. His book rights are left to the Associated Professors of St. Mary's Seminary at Baltimore. Garret A. McEnerney is the attorney for the executor, John J. Lardner.

Broadway and Side Streets

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (UP)—The dramatization of novels is a persistent vice of playwrights and usually is a thankless task. The results are sometimes interesting, rarely ever satisfying.

Four plays presented within the past month have been adapted from novels, two of which were best sellers. They are "A Farewell to Arms," arranged by Laurence Stallings from Ernest Hemingway's novel; "Mr. Gilhooley, an adaptation of Liam O'Flaherty's none too popular book: "Bad Girl," which brought fame to Vina Delmar, adapted by Miss Delmar and Brian Marlow: Kenyon Nicholson's dramatization of "Stepdaughters of War," a psuedo-sensational novel of women in the World War by Helen Zenna Smith.

As sometimes happens, the least pretentious production of the four—that of "Bad Girl"—resulted in the most satisfying. This can be accounted for it partly because "Bad Girl" as a novel was not a highly imaginative piece of work, being more in the nature of a stenographic report of life among New York's middle classes. Some of the success, possibly much of it is due to the persuasive acting of Miss Sylvia Sidney and Paul Kelly in the leading role.

Producer Makes Bow

The story of the book, too well known to be repeated here, has been transferred in believable fashion by the adapters. Robert Newman, a young man making his bow as a Broadway producer, gave the play a workmanlike presentation. One scene—that in the delivery room of a hospital—deserves some comment. Obviously it was used for its sensational aspects; actually it is not sensational and does not appear in bad taste. It could be ommitted, however, without damage to the plot. The scene is played behind a white screen on which the shadows of the players are thrown.

Not much can be said about "A Farewell to Arms," which departed last week after a three-week run. The producer, A. H. Woods, and Stallings did all possible to make it a meritorious production, but the novel was too fine a thing to be confined to the limits of the stage. It was hampered also by miscasting.

"Mr. Gilhooley" also fails short of perfection in a dramatization of a novel. Surely it is not a play in the popular mould, with its story of a middle-aged Dubliner who takes in a homeless young woman and falls in love with her, but cannot win her because she can never forget the younger lover who cast her aside. The Othello-like last act is gripping in its emotional tensity.

The play is decidedly interesting and much beauty is imparted to it by the two leading players, Miss Helen Hayes and Arthur Sinclair, veteran of the Abby Theatre in Dublin.

"Female Journey's End"

"Stepdaughters of War" has been characterized as a "female Journey's End." It is and it isn't. The story is that of the women who served as ambulance drivers in the late war, but the opposite sex also plays its part in establishing the theme of war as a destroyer of the soul as well as the physical body.

The lovers in this piece find fustration in their romance at the end of the war, with the gril's feelings dulled by the shock of her experiences and the man's body wrecked by bullets. They are ghosts doomed to live with younger people who can never know what they have been through, and as such they decide on a quiet life as spectators in a world to which they can not hope to adjust themselves.

Again an outstanding bit of acting aids the play immeasurably — that of Miss Katherine Alexander as the heroine. Again the play is well mounted and made to seem better than it actually may be. It is morbid, but not dull.

COHANECDOTE

George M. Cohan, producer, playwright, actor, composer, dancer, name-it-and-you-con-have-it, is going to desert Broadway the remainder of the season for a barnstorming tour of 35 weeks which will take him as far west as Omaha. It is the first tour of such scope for the veteran in 20 years. Cohan and his company will play "The Tavern," his favorite play and a grand satire on the drama of an earlier day. The troupe will play many one night stands in town halls and auditoriums.

COLCHESTER, Essex, (UP)— Experts have established that a woman of the Roman era, whose remains have been unearthed here, had a wisdom tooth coming through at the time of her death some thousand or so years ago.

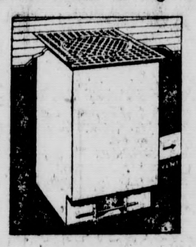
Gas-fired heating is clean and care-free

"Cold weather may catch me by surprise, but with our new gas heating system my wife and children can keep warm and cozy without any effort or trouble."

If you are tired of making fires on chilly mornings, tired of cleaning out ashes and dirt from smudgy fires—then one of these labor saving appliances is just the thing for heating your home

The Floor Furnace

The Floor Furnace is ideal for homes having no basement.



Floor Furnace

This gas-fired appliance will heat two or three rooms comfortably, even in the coldest weather. You turn a handy valve to start it. Quickly, it circulates warm air all about the rooms. It draws cold air off the floor, down around the hot outsides of the steel firebox, and back into the room as warm air, without mingling with the burning gas. All products of combustion are vented outdoors.

Completely installed for $10.00 down and only $7.50 a month.

The Circulating Room Heater

The Circulating Room Heater is ideal for heating small homes, stores, and offices. No basement is necessary.

This circulating heater is a graceful cabinet, harmonizing with the most tasteful furnishings.

You'll like its clean, convenient heating. It circulates healthful warm air in from 2 to 4 rooms. No products of combustion can escape into the room—they are vented outdoors.

This economical heater will be installed by us for only $5.00 down and $7.00 per month.

Circulating Room Heater

The Radiantfire

You can modernize your fireplace and change it into cheerful, care-free heating by installing a Humphrey Radiantfire.

The Radiantfire does away with the discomforts of the old-fashioned fireplace, with its wasteful heating, dirt and ashes and all attending labor. At the same time it gives you all the romance of an open fireplace.

Have a Radiantfire installed in your fireplace. Light it—quickly it takes away the chill and spreads radiant warmth to every corner of the room. There is a Radiantfire suitable for every fireplace, in colors and designs to conform with any decorative scheme. We'll install one in your fireplace for $5.00 down.

Radiantfire

In addition to these three inexpensive but efficient heaters, there are warm-air furnaces suitable for homes having a basement.

And remember, when you have gas there is no fuel to order. No cleaning to do. You pay for the gas after using.

See these house-heating appliances at your dealer's store or call at our office.

HOLLYWOOD'S FILM SHOP

By GEORGE H. BEALE
United Press Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct 13 (UP) —Although four years have passed since Anita Stewart retired from the films there are many in Hollywood who believe that a "comeback" might be hers if the fates just shifted things a little.

In fact, some of her friends are so bold as to say that Anita might become a factor in the talking pictures if she would indulge in that merry little game of "studio politics."

Miss Stewart almost believes so herself at moments when she talks of the possibility of resuming her career in pictures. She admits, however, that she is a very poor politician.

"People tell me to give a little dinner. Invite such and such a producer or director. Play up your social connections. Watch carefully as to who you invite to your home. Only associate with those who can further your plans. Fine suggestions but I can't do it."

The actress admits that she may not be social in the right places at the right times. She says that most of her friends are those who seem unable to do her any good around the studios.

"Right now, somehow I don't know just what to do with my life," she said. "I suppose it is hard for an actress to retire."

In private life Miss Stewart is Mrs. George Converse. Her husband's father was a big steel executive and he has inherited some taste for business. In addition he is a profound student of the sea and of criminology. He has written a text book on navigation and has a big library of books on finger-printing. The Converse-Stewart household, in a two-story apartment building, has as much of the masculine touch as the feminine due to the fact that Converse has so many ship models and other devices around the place.

Miss Stewart entered the films when she was 11. When she was 14 Commodore J. Stuart Blackton gave her a part in "The Wood Violet" after she told him she was two years older.

From the ages of 16 to 18 Miss Stewart had leading parts in a number of large productions. She was very popular in the younger set of the screen and won many dancing cups. One of the trophies was presented to her by Rudolph Valentino and she admits that at the time that made just about as much impression on her as a new screen contract at more money.

Starting with Vitaphone, Miss Stewart went to First National to score most of her big successes. These included "The Girl Philippa," "In Old Kentucky," "My Lady's Slipper," and "Never the Twain Shall Meet."

Celebration To Be Feature At Bridge Dedication Nov. 1

Dedication of Southern Pacific's $12,000,000 Martinez-Benicia bridge project on Saturday, November 1, an event of outstanding interest in the transportation world, will be the occasion for popular excursion fares from this city to Martinez with stopover privileges in San Francisco for the week-end.

This announcement was made here today by L. R. Dains, Agent Southern Pacific Company, who declared that plans for the bridge-opening insure one of the greatest spectacles ever arranged in connection with an affair of its kind.

With all the steel now in place, the gigantic structure across Suscun Bay is rapidly nearing completion, according to the railroad's engineers, and its dedication will be celebrated with a program varied and widespread interest.

A pageant of transportation progress will be enacted with the tiny locomotive "C. P. Huntington", patriarch of Southern Pacific's motive power, leading a modern rail giant across the bridge. In addition, the daytime attractions are to be featured by water sports, including speedboat races, and a thrilling air circus, Dains announced. Carnival stunts and a fireworks display in Martinez will close the festivities.

United States Senator Samuel M. Shortridge has accepted an invitation to be the principal speaker at the celebration. The ceremonies will not only dedicate the mammoth bridge, but will also mark the passing of the historic train ferries across Carquinez Straits between Port Costa and Benicia.

Long known as the largest ferry boats in the world, the "Solano" and "Contra Costa" will bow to progress and retire from service as the new Martinez-Benicia bridge takes up the work of transporting all of Southern Pacific's Overland and Shasta Route trains over the upper reaches of San Francisco Bay.

Special low fares have been authorized by Southern Pacific, together with convenient train schedules, in honor of the occasion, according to Agent Dains. The tickets will be sold October 31 and November 1, with return limit of November 4. This will enable excursionist to attend the bridge fete and spend the week-end in San Francisco, Oakland or other bay cities returning home, it was pointed out.

EACH HANDBILL IS DAY IN JAIL

SHANGHAI, Oct. 21 (UP)—Riding along in a rickshaw with a load of communist handbills, Li Chi-moh ran smack into the law.

Chinese police deposited Li and his handbills, which denounced the National Government in severe terms, before a judge.

"How many times has he been in here before?" the judge asked the police.

"Sixteen."

"How many handbills has he got there?"

"Fifteen thousand."

"One day in jail for each handbill," the court pronounced.

Li and the court officials collaborated on a bit of mathematical exercise, at the conclusion of which they agreed that he was due to be on the inside looking out for 61 years and 35 days.

An appeal has been filed.
